

Raymond JNC Cruz

MIS141 - A

Risk-Taking Test

The following is a summary of the traits you possess that contribute to risk-taking, those that may be conducive to risk-taking, and those that could inhibit your desire to take risks.

Traits you possess that are favorable for risk-taking

- You are a thrill-seeker, on the lookout for adventurous experiences

Traits you possess that might be conducive to risk-taking

- You can generally handle new and intense situations
- You are moderately concerned about negative consequences of your actions
- You are somewhat comfortable with ambiguity

Traits you possess that inhibit the desire to take risks

- You are conscientious
- You are afraid to take physically dangerous risks
- You do not feel comfortable taking risks with your money
- You are not very willing to take risks with your career
- You are not willing to break societal and organizational rules

Raymond JNC Cruz

MIS141 - A

Ocean Personality Assessment

Your score for Openness to Experience: 23

Do you like to experience new and varied activities or do you prefer routine and familiarity?

Your score for Conscientiousness: 25

Are you industrious, thorough and well organised?

Your score for Extraversion: 21

Are you an outgoing, socially active extravert or do you prefer working and being alone?

Your score for Agreeableness: 30

Do you show compassion or are you tough and guarded?

Natural Reactions: 14

Are your reactions overly emotional? Do you tend to be apprehensive and anxious - or - are you cool, calm and collected?